Black In Film:
A Series of Conversations and a Showcase of Historical Lineage in Cinema

The series takes you on a journey along a path of success stories and triumphs of African American cinema artists. This journey will give you a practical lesson on the Black experience in Hollywood. It is meant to inspire people to appreciate the value of black film and literature through creative thinking, dreaming and turning that dream into a reality. Immediately following each screening, a Q&A session will take place with a senior staff member of the African American Cinema Gallery (AACG).

All screenings will begin promptly at 1:00pm and will take place in the ACVB Visitors Center Theater (located at Upper Alabama Street & Pryor Street) at Underground Atlanta

African-American Cinema Gallery exhibit

AACG is an inspirational tribute to Black actors, actresses and authors whose creativity has inspired the nation throughout history. It's a touring multimedia presentation, which consists of an exhibit that covers numerous African American films, more than 100 actors and actresses, and many drama series and sitcoms. It also includes essays, posters, news clippings, books, screenplays, exclusive children collectibles-dolls, action figures and cartoon characters, rare photos and famous quotes of great actors and actresses and much more. This collection contains more than 100 one of a kind items of memorabilia.

On display at Underground Atlanta on Saturday's in February (February 6, 13, 20, 27), 12:00pm – 6:00pm, in the Upper Exchange (adjacent from ACVB Visitors Center)
